

All aboard! How about a trip by canoe or kayak down two rivers, typical of the South West of France

Having heard the latest information, and picked up a map to find your way on the water, let the adventure begin!

Along the way, you will encounter fantastic waterfalls—an excuse for a break, a dip or a siesta ... Time does not matter on the water.

On the riverbanks, there are rows of poplar trees, alders and acacias. Vegetation is thick and bushy. With a little imagination, you could believe you were on a tropical river. But here, there is no risk of coming across any crocodiles or anacondas. Instead you will meet various types of birds such as kingfishers, buzzards or grey herons. And, if you are very quiet, you may also have the chance to spot deer on the banks.

The Save, a tributary of the River Garonne, is a calm and unspoilt river, where the flora and fauna provide a change of scenery. It is a place to learn how to canoe on flat gentle water, ideal for peace and relaxation. As for the Gesse, this is also a river available to all, but slightly more challenging.

As your trip comes to an end all you have to do is give us a call shortly before the finish so that we can come and pick you up. Everything is planned so you can have a moment of pure relaxation amongst friends or family.
